GEORGETOWN UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF LAW.

1911–1912.

The next term of this institution opens Wednesday evening, October 4, 1911, at 6.30 o'clock, in the Georgetown University Law Building, 506 and 508 E Street, N. W., in the city of Washington. All persons interested are invited to attend the introductory lecture, which will then be delivered. The collegiate year closes on the first of June.

ADVANTAGES.

Of the great advantages offered by a Law School over the unassisted reading of a student in a law office there can be no question. Here, however, the experiment has been successfully made of uniting the advantages of the two. The lectures are held in the evening, and, so far as practicable, students who put themselves into timely communication with the Secretary are connected with the offices of the ablest lawyers of the city, where they are allowed to familiarize themselves with the conduct of business and the practical duties of the profession.

The holding of the lectures and other exercises in the evening also enables clerks in the various departments of the Government, and other persons who are engaged during the day, to avail themselves of the privileges of the School.

The site of the institution, at the Capital of the Nation, presents advantages for the study of American jurisprudence which are unequaled elsewhere, and must always remain so.

The Law Library at the United States Capitol contains over 100,000 volumes, embracing all the noted treatises, reports, and periodicals, ancient and modern, American, English and of the nations of Continental Europe. By the operation of the copyright law and the outlay of an annual appropriation it is constantly enriched with new acquisitions, and it is believed to be kept in a state of completeness unrivaled among the law libraries of the world. The magnificent collection is freely open to students seven hours daily.

Congress, the Court of Claims, the Supreme Court of the United States, and the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia are in session during several months of each school year, and, with the Executive Departments, especially the Patent, Pension, and General Land Offices, furnish advantages for professional study nowhere else enjoyed.

The Supreme Court of the District of Columbia has the common law, equity, criminal and probate jurisdiction of a State Court in the States, besides that of the Circuit and District Court of the United States. Its sessions afford the students opportunities for hearing the forensic arguments and forming the acquaintance of the leaders of the American Bar from all parts of the Union, besides thoroughly familiarizing himself with the practice of these various courts.

COST OF BOARDING, ETC.

There is no boarding department connected with the Law School. The majority of the law students board in Washington City, where the Law School is located, and where the cost of comfortable lodging, board, fuel and gas varies from $20 to $30 per month, according to the location and appointments selected. Satisfactory accommodation can easily be had at $25 per month, and there are every year students who provide for themselves comfortably at a cost of $20 per month and even less. Tuition is $100 per annum, with no incidental charges except a library fee of $2 per annum and a diploma fee of $10 upon graduation. Cost of text-books is about $30 per annum. The Law School session is eight months. The necessary expense for board, lodging, tuition, books, etc., per annum, is therefore about $350, exclusive, of course, of clothing and general incidental expenses.

Students desiring to become members of the School enter their names upon the Secretary's register at or before the opening of the term in October. Candidates for a degree must have received a high school education, or its equivalent, evidence of which must be presented or a preliminary examination will be required.

Candidates for advanced standing, i. e., those desiring to complete the course in less time than the regular curriculum of three years, must, at the time of entry, present certificates of previous study at some approved Law School, or under the direction of a reputable practitioner. Such certificate must show, moreover, that the candidate has passed a satisfactory examination upon the subjects embraced in the First, or the First and Second Years, as the case may be, otherwise an examination will be necessary before he can enter an advanced class.

This examination will always be required of those whose study has been carried on under the direction of a practitioner, but in no case will a candidate for advanced standing, who has studied under a practitioner, be admitted to a higher class that the Second Year Class.

COURSE OF STUDY.

The regular curriculum will cover a period of three years, divided into a First, Second, and Third Year. Upon the successful completion of the Three Years' Course the student will be entitled to receive the degree of Bachelor of Laws.

Regular and punctual attendance on the part of the student is required, as also preparation for thorough recitations in class daily, and delinquency in either particular will be deemed a sufficient cause for refusing to grant a degree.

Candidates for a degree must have been in regular attendance for at least one year, and must pass a satisfactory examination on the entire year's course of study.

The following is the course of study pursued in the Law School:

Special attention is called to the fact that the regular attendance of the students, at every recitation, is expected and required, and that an average of 70 per cent must be attained in each subject for students to advance with their classes, or to receive their degree, as the case may be.

Each text-book in the course of study is made the subject of a written examination upon, or shortly after, its completion. Students passing satisfactorily upon the subjects of those examinations will not be required to stand a second examination upon them during the year. A satisfactory examination means an attainment by the student of at least 70 per cent in the written examination.

Those students of the Third Year Class who fail to attain this average in two subjects of the year's assignment will not be allowed to receive their degree, and will not be entitled to a re-examination.

PATENT LAW AND PRACTICE.

For the benefit of those who wish to specialize patent law a complete course of practice is open to students of the Third and Fourth Year Classes, and also to members of the bar and graduates of approved law schools.

This course extends throughout the entire year, with two sessions each week. It includes a series of lectures and quizzes on the organization of the Federal Courts and especially their jurisdiction in patent causes; and the preparation and trial of causes, with the view of familiarizing the student with patent procedure, special attention being given to the subject of injunctions.

Students are required to prepare papers and take part in the argument of causes; and to particularly study and report upon controlling cases dealing with questions of practice.

Inasmuch as this course gives the student a thorough training in equity procedure, attendance upon the Practice Court work by students of the Third Year Class will be excused.

For students of the Third and Fourth Year classes there is no extra charge; for all others the fee is $40.

THE PRACTICE COURT.

Especial painstaking effort has been devoted, with gratifying results, to perfecting such an organization of the Practice Court as would render that adjunct of the School not merely a forum for the argument of mooted questions of law, but a useful and efficient training school for the practical duties of the profession.

As now organized the Court is divide into a Circuit Court and a Court of Appeals.

The Circuit Court, under the charge of Mr. D. W. O'Donoghue and Mr. J. S. Easby-Smith, holds two sessions weekly, known as the Special and the Regular Term. At the Special Term motions, demurrers, pleas in equity, and all proceedings of an interlocutory or preliminary nature which, in actual practice, ordinarily precede the final hearing upon the merits of the case, are heard and disposed of, while at the Regular Term such proceedings are had as usually characterize the final hearing of causes in courts of the first instance. The practice conforms to that of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, with pleadings as at common law.

The Court of Appeals, to which causes may be removed from the Circuit Court by writ of error or appeal conformably to the practice of the United States Supreme Court, is held by Messrs. Leigh Robinson and J. Nota McGill, and sits monthly, or oftener, as the work before it may require.

While the students in the Third Year Course are required to take the leading part in the exercises of the Moot Court, it will continue to be the endeavor of the Faculty to make the Court, as in the past, a training school for all the students, as their progress warrants, in pleading, practice and forensic debate.

LIBRARY AND READING-ROOM.

A carefully selected Library, comprising the latest editions of the standard text books and the leading reports, has been provided for the accommodation and convenience of students in a well-lighted and suitably appointed suite of rooms in the Law Building set apart exclusively for the purpose. These rooms are open to students and alumni of the School at all hours of the day and evening. For the maintenance and improvement of the Library a Fee of $2 per annum is charged to each student. This fee becomes due and payable at the time of registration.

The following prizes are offered for the competition of the students in the several classes:

1st. A cash prize of $50 to the member of the First Year Class maintaining the best average in recitations and examinations during the year.

2d. A cash prize of $25 to the member of the First Year

DEBATING.

Realizing the benefit derived from public speaking and extemporaneous debate, the Faculty have decided to award, during the ensuing scholastic year, a series of prizes to be contested for by members of the debating societies conducted by the student body. There will be four preliminary debates during the year and the best debater in each of such contests will be awarded a cash prize of $25, in addition to which the four so chosen will participate in a final debate, the one selected by the judges as the best debater to be awarded a cash prize of $50.

FOURTH YEAR OR POST-GRADUATE COURSE.

Students who have completed the foregoing three years' course, and holders of the degree of Bachelor of Laws will, upon the successful completion of this course, be entitled to receive the degree of Master of Laws.

The principal subjects included in this course are as follows:

The History of the Development of Law, tracing its Origin and Development from Ancient to Modern Times; the History of English Law; the History of Constitutional Law and the Foundations of Civil Liberty; Natural Law; Canon Law; Civil Law; International Law and Foreign Relations of the United States; Admiralty and Maritime Law; the Conflict of Laws, especially as affecting the subjects of Domicile, Citizenship, Residence, Marriage and Divorce, Parent and Child, Guardian and Ward, Interest and Usury, Deeds and other Contracts, Wills, the Administration of Estates of Decedents, Receivers, etc.; Special Tort Law, including Trusts and other Combinations; Railroad Accident Law, etc.; Special Contract Law, including Fire and Life Insurance; Contracts of Carriers; Statute of Frauds; the Statute of Limitations, etc.; Special Real Estate Law, including Water and Water-courses; Fixtures; Easements, etc.; Patent Law, including the General Principles of the Patent Statutes and Procedure before the Patent Office and Federal Courts; Jurisdiction of the United States Courts; the Conflict of Jurisdiction; Practice, Transportation as affected by the Interstate Commerce Law; Estoppel; Medical Jurisprudence; Legal Ethics.

Besides these subjects the Faculty has conceded to establish practical exercises in General Practice, Pleading and Evidence. In this course the student will be required to draft, not only the different pleadings, both Law and Equity, and all motions incident to practice in both courts, but contracts, deeds, leases and other papers which come within the practice of the general practitioner. Questions arising on the pleadings prepared by the students will be argued by all of them, and questions of evidence will be put to all the class, and, after proper preparation, every student will be expected to argue, either in favor of or against the admissibility of the evidence, as he may be called upon by the Lecturer in charge; likewise questions embracing the rule of evidence under consideration will be put without notice to the students, in order not only to illustrate the subject under consideration, but to teach the student to apply the rules of evidence in exactly the same manner as they are applied by the lawyer in the trial of a cause.

It is intended by these exercises that the student gain a practical knowledge which will aid him materially in entering upon the practice of the law.

Lectures on special subjects will be delivered occasionally throughout the year by lawyers and educators of national reputation.

The arrangement of the subjects in this course and the hours of delivery of the lectures will be announced at the commencement of the first term.

TEXT-BOOKS.

Minor on the Conflict of Laws; Baldwin on Railway Law; Curtis on Jurisdiction of United States Courts; Sohn's Principles of Roman Law and Sharswood's Legal Ethics.

Leading cases upon the several subjects will be assigned by the lecturers to be read in connection with the lectures.

As a prerequisite to graduation students in this course will be required not only to pass a satisfactory examination on the entire year's course of study, but also to submit a satisfactory thesis upon a legal subject to be selected and announced by the Faculty.

LECTURE STUDENTS.

Those who wish to avail themselves of the lectures delivered at this School without being subject to recitations or being candidates for a degree may do so upon payment of one-half the regular charge for tuition.

SYSTEM OF INSTRUCTION.

The system of instruction adopted by the Georgetown Law School is as follows: A lesson, averaging from thirty to forty pages of the text-book, is assigned in advance, which the student is expected to master as thoroughly as he can before the lecture hour. The lecturer then goes over the ground covered by the text, explaining what is obscure or difficult, pointing out the application in practice of the principles treated of, and illustrating, by examples, their application in actual cases. Then follows the recitation, in which the lesson is gone over in the shape of questions accompanied by oral exposition on the assigned work, under the direction of an instructor, requiring the students to reproduce in their own language all that it contains, with practical applications of the doctrines learned to supposed cases. The student thus has three opportunities of becoming familiar, theoretically and practically, with each topic treated in the course; once by careful study of the text, a second time by the explanation of it in the lecture, and once again by himself reproducing and practically applying the principles thus taught, in the oral recitation. This system has been found, after careful and painstaking test, most satisfactory to both teacher and student, and productive of highest standard of proficiency in study. It is believed to be absolutely the best.

TERMS.

The charge for attendance in the First, Second, and Third Year is One Hundred Dollars per annum. As far as payment of tuition is concerned, the collegiate year is regarded as divided into two equal terms, beginning on the first Wednesday in October and February, respectively, and one-half the annual charge becomes due and payable on the following day, Thursday. For the accommodation of students the Secretary will, when requested, receive monthly payments strictly in advance.

Tuition in the Fourth or Post-Graduate Course is also One Hundred Dollars per annum, payable semi-annually, or in monthly installments in advance, and a library fee of $2 per annum payable at the time of registration.

Persons enrolling their names as students will be considered as having entered the school for not less than one term unless an express agreement to the contrary is made. Payment will not be received for less than one full month, nor can any deduction be made for absence.

For attendance on Lectures, as hereinbefore stated, the charge is Fifty Dollars per annum, payable in monthly installments in advance.

The fee for Graduation, which is additional to the yearly charge for attendance, and which includes all expenses of the annual commencement, is Ten Dollars.
